

英 語 (筆記)

(解答番号 ~)

第 1 問 次の問い(A・B)に答えよ。(配点 14)

A 次の問い(問 1～4)において、下線部の発音がほかの三つの場合と異なるものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

問 1

- ① boast ② couoch ③ glow ④ tooe

問 2

- ① format ② instance ③ manage ④ passion

問 3

- ① enclose ② housing ③ increase ④ resolve

問 4

- ① chemistry ② monarchh ③ ostrichh ④ scholar

B 次の問い(問1～3)において、第一アクセント(第一強勢)の位置がほかの三つの場合と異なるものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

問1

- ① disease ② infect ③ landscape ④ supreme

問2

- ① ignorant ② investment ③ occupy ④ prosperous

問3

- ① disadvantage ② epidemic
③ significant ④ unemployment

第2問 次の問い(A～C)に答えよ。(配点 41)

A 次の問い(問1～10)の ～ に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

問1 Dad, if my grades improve by the end of the term, would you mind my allowance?

- ① raising ② rising ③ to raise ④ to rise

問2 “I’ve been on weight recently.”
“You should exercise more and eat better.”

- ① carrying ② increasing ③ putting ④ reducing

問3 Kenji told me his trip to London was wonderful. I wish I in that program.

- ① had participated ② have participated
③ participate ④ will participate

問4 The houses look like rows of tiny cardboard boxes when you look out of the window of a plane in .

- ① flight ② flowing ③ flown ④ flyer

問 5 The fans waited outside the door in the hope catching sight of the movie star.

- ① for ② of ③ to ④ with 問 6 At our local health clinic, the doctor will only see you by .

- ① appointment ② approval ③ reputation ④ resolution

問 7 Some people find difficult to economize on mobile phone costs even when times are hard.

- ① everything ② it ③ that ④ things

問 8 I've finished writing my application. Who am I to give it to?

- ① announced ② applied
③ pointed ④ supposed

問 9 All the children in the family will for the New Year's holidays.

- ① crowd ② form ③ gather ④ set

問10 My brother loves baseball. He's an enthusiastic, not a gifted, player.

- ① as ② if ③ or ④ so

B 次の問い(問1～3)の会話の ～ に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

問1 Peter: I'm glad we went to the class reunion.

Jane: Me, too. It was great to see everyone.

Peter: I can't believe it's been ten years since we graduated.

Jane: I know.

- ① I'm looking forward to it.
- ② It feels like it was yesterday.
- ③ There's no time like the present.
- ④ There's still plenty of time.

問2 Waiter: So, are you ready to order?

Customer: No, not really. What do you recommend?

Waiter: The shrimp pasta is very good!

Customer: Really?

- ① Eventually, I'll get over that.
- ② I guess I'll go on with that.
- ③ I'll have that then.
- ④ OK, so then I'll be that.

問 3 Chester: Do you have any plans for the summer vacation?

Annalee: I'm going to Japan for two weeks.

Chester: How exciting! I've always wanted to go.

Annalee: Yes.

20

- ① I hope I can go someday.
- ② I hope you enjoy yourself.
- ③ It'll be great to live here.
- ④ It'll be the trip of a lifetime.

C 次の問い(問1～3)において、それぞれ下の語句を並べかえて空所を補い、文を完成させよ。解答は ～ に入れるものの番号のみを答えよ。

問1 Thank you very much for _____ _____ _____ when I bought my car.

- ① advice ② gave ③ great
④ me ⑤ the ⑥ you

問2 “What’s up with Jack? He seems so happy.”

“He applied for a new job, and _____ _____ _____ an interview.”

- ① called ② company ③ for ④ him ⑤ in ⑥ the

問3 Doing a homestay with a family in another country _____ _____ _____ skills.

- ① communication ② develop ③ help
④ would ⑤ you ⑥ your

第3問 次の問い(A～C)に答えよ。(配点 46)

A 次の問い(問1・問2)の英文を読み、下線部の語句の意味をそれぞれの文章から推測し、・に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

問1

Alice: What's wrong? You look troubled.

Bob: My sister helped me with my math homework, but no matter how hard I tried to do it, I simply could not get my head around it.

Alice: Would you like me to show you? It's really not that difficult.

In this situation, get my head around means .

- ① comprehend
- ② eliminate
- ③ fail
- ④ receive

問 2

Mr. Suzuki is a top salesperson for a cosmetics company who has been awarded many prizes for his performance. He knows a lot about the products. He always manages to sell more than his colleagues do because of his congenial personality. In the parties with the customers, he is always surrounded by many people, who enjoy talking with him.

In this situation, congenial means

28

.

- ① difficult
- ② friendly
- ③ pessimistic
- ④ quiet

B 次の英文は、3人の俳優による座談会での議論の一部である。29～31に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

Moderator: Today, we welcome three actors, Fernando Costa, Nina Pavlova, and Manuel Dupond, to our round-table talk. Today's topic is playing different kinds of roles. Would you start, Fernando?

Fernando: Sure. As an actor, I like being a different person on stage. I'm basically a happy person. I always enjoy talking with friends and telling jokes. But when I act, I like playing tragic roles. A playwright creates a situation which draws the audience into another world, and I can also enter that world. For example, I take pleasure in playing Hamlet or Othello, who both experience great misfortune. I can't easily imagine such drama in my daily life, so I prefer performing serious roles like that.

Nina: I like to play tragic roles, too, but for somewhat different reasons from yours, Fernando. You seem to like to act out what 29, don't you?

- ① the audience expects you to do on stage
- ② writers themselves don't want to do on stage
- ③ you don't usually experience in real life
- ④ you have experienced in your daily life

Fernando: Yes, exactly.

Nina: Personally, it's difficult to imagine how characters who are different from me would feel and behave. I'm not an optimistic person and I tend to take things very seriously. I can't even imagine myself telling a joke. So I'm not good at playing comic roles.

Moderator: Thank you, Nina. Your point is that you

30

.

- ① are disappointed when you are assigned a serious role
- ② can tell jokes on stage without practice
- ③ can understand how someone else feels in a happy situation
- ④ feel more comfortable with serious roles

Nina: Yes, that's right.

Moderator: OK. How about you, Manuel?

Manuel: Like Nina, I think that if your personality is similar to that of the character you play, it helps your performance and makes the character you play more believable. For me, it's sometimes impossible to express what I don't usually think and feel. I'm very outgoing and I feel happy when people laugh at my jokes. So it's difficult for me to play very serious roles. Of course I can think of the person I'm playing and put myself in that person's shoes, but I'm most comfortable playing someone whose personality is close to mine, I mean, playing comic roles.

Moderator: It seems that what matters most to you is whether or not.

31

- ① the audience likes your acting
- ② the role fits your true personality
- ③ you can accept the challenge of serious roles
- ④ you can stretch yourself to fit the role

Manuel: That's right.

C 次の文章の ～ に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の ①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

Indonesia is well-known all over the world for a special kind of cloth that is made in a very long and complex production process. It is produced by applying wax to some parts of the surface of a piece of cotton cloth and then dyeing it. When the cloth is put into the dye, the parts under the wax do not absorb the color; they resist the dye. This cloth is called batik.

Fine, smooth cotton cloth must first be washed and treated before the batik maker can begin to draw the designs on the cloth with a small pot of hot wax. Care must be taken to control the temperature of the wax and not to make a mistake in the design. If it is too hot, it will flow too easily, but if it is too cool, it will not flow at all. Both sides of the cloth are covered with designs in wax; then the cloth is dipped into a large container of dye. After the dyeing, the cloth is soaked in cold water, and the wax is removed with a knife. The same process is repeated for each color of the design.

The preparation of batik requires great skill. Therefore, batik makers perform certain rituals to make sure they will be successful in waxing and dyeing the cloth. In some local areas, they even stay up all night for ceremonies before beginning the work.

The complex production process . The unique patterns drawn in wax and the soft colors all combine to make this a special product. Although modern manufacturing methods can mass-produce cloth that looks like batik, for those who truly love batik, a genuine piece created by a skilled maker is a treasured work of art.

32

- ① Batik is used to make both modern and traditional clothes.
- ② Batik makers need permission to carry out the special process.
- ③ Many methods for decorating cloth exist in Indonesia.
- ④ There are many steps involved in the production of batik.

33

- ① However, that process is not so difficult.
- ② Many things can go wrong during the process.
- ③ Moreover, there is a faster and more efficient process.
- ④ The batik making process can be found in several other countries.

34

- ① is not always needed to make true Indonesian batik
- ② is not the only reason Indonesian batik is famous
- ③ makes it difficult for Indonesian batik to be famous
- ④ may be crucial for making the price reasonable

第4問 次の問い(A・B)に答えよ。(配点 33)

- A 次の文章とグラフを読み、下の問い(問1～3)に対する答えとして ～ に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

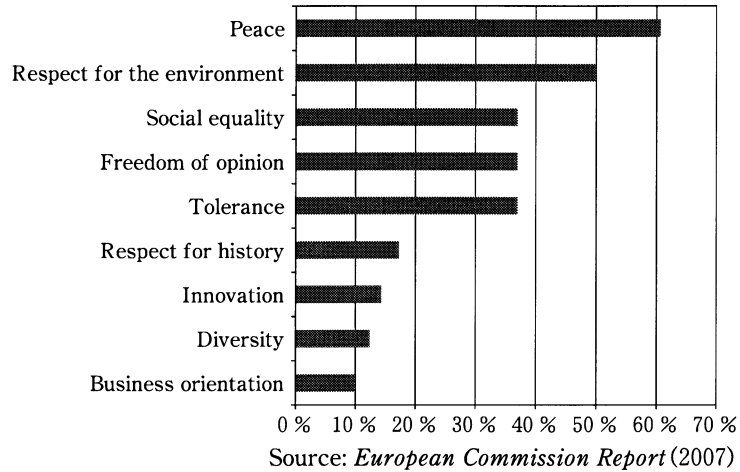

When people communicate, they usually assume shared values. But in fact, there are often notable differences in the values recognized by particular groups of people. For example, while many people within the European Union (EU) agree on several common values, there are differences among their countries.

A 2007 European Commission report identified clear examples of these similarities and differences. People from various countries were asked to choose which values they consider important in their society. As shown in the graph, a majority of the respondents in the EU considered peace important for them (61%). This was followed by respect for the environment, which was selected by exactly half of the respondents.

However, when the results were compared by country, a different picture emerged. Although overall, social equality, freedom of opinion, and were equally valued, differences were noted among countries. For example, freedom of opinion was selected by 37 percent of all respondents, but more highly valued in the UK (55%) and the Netherlands (52%) than elsewhere. The greatest variation was found in the results for how people regard tolerance, which was selected by 60 percent in the Netherlands but by only 11 percent in Greece.

Such differences in values can cause misunderstandings in communication between people with different backgrounds. To put it another way, to improve communication, it is important to recognize differences in values. Therefore, to become effective communicators, people should reflect objectively on their own values.

Key Societal Values in the EU

問 1 Which of the following is the most appropriate for 35 ?

- ① diversity
- ② innovation
- ③ peace
- ④ tolerance

問 2 Which of the following statements is true? 36

- ① Greek values regarding tolerance closely follow the EU member trend.
- ② People in the EU now believe that business orientation is more important than respect for history.
- ③ Respect for the environment is less than the three least commonly selected values combined.
- ④ The Netherlands and the UK share a similar view concerning freedom of opinion.

問 3 According to the writer, what is needed to become a good communicator?

37

- ① To agree on a shared set of values.
- ② To consider the number of respondents.
- ③ To have a high regard for EU member countries.
- ④ To think about one's own values and those of others.

B 次のページの広告を読み、次の問い(問1～3)の ～ に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。

問 1 To have SWIP Newspaper delivered, you must .

- ① give your credit card information on their homepage
- ② provide directions to your home for their delivery agency
- ③ take the transfer slip to a convenience store and pay
- ④ use a postal transfer form to send your payment

問 2 SWIP Newspaper guarantees that .

- ① subscribers can participate in SWIP English seminars
- ② the SWIP writers will respond to each online discussion entry
- ③ their online dictionary is adjusted on a weekly basis
- ④ video clips on their articles can be purchased at reasonable prices

問 3 According to the advertisement, .

- ① the newspaper focuses on international news
- ② the newspaper is published online
- ③ there are twenty thousand readers overseas
- ④ you save five hundred yen on a one-year subscription

SWIP Newspaper

Keep up with the world with SWIP
(Student Weekly International Perspective)

Founded in 1971, published in Tokyo, and delivered to your door every Saturday by the IKIP Newspaper Delivery Agencies throughout Japan.

SWIP keeps more than 20,000 students in Japan informed of what's happening around the world. SWIP provides an excellent way to learn English from an international perspective.

Rate (tax included)	1 month	1,000 yen
	6 months	5,500 yen (500 yen off)
	1 year	10,000 yen (2,000 yen off)

- ◆ Contact us on the Internet at www.swip.co.jp or by phone (toll-free) at 0120-xxx-xxx. When you receive the SWIP money-transfer slip, fill in the necessary information and pay at a nearby convenience store.

Services Included

Every subscriber will have a password to access the following:

- SWIP Online Dictionary, which contains all the words you need to read the SWIP Newspaper. It is updated once a month.
- SWIP Video Gallery, which shows video clips from other dependable sources to deepen your understanding of the news you read in the SWIP Newspaper.
- SWIP Roundtable, where you can exchange opinions about the issues introduced in the SWIP Newspaper. Feedback may come from other readers or from the SWIP reporters.
- SWIP Seminar Site, where all subscribers can find free tickets to English seminars we sponsor in Japan.

SWIP Newspaper (a subsidiary of the IKIP Newspaper)

S. Takeda, Director and Executive Editor

S. Anderson, Managing Editor

A. Yoshino, Manager (Circulation)

第5問 次の文章は、同一の状況について二人の人物がそれぞれの観点から述べたものである。文章を読み、下の問い(問1～5)の

41

 ～

45

 に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。(配点 30)

A Family Trip to the City

Father talking about the trip: Well, I guess the day was a success. It was Sunday and I would rather have stayed at home, but at least we enjoyed the day as a family, and Tom and Cindy got to do something they wanted to do. The train ride into town in the morning was pleasant — better than it is on weekdays. It wasn't crowded at all and I had plenty of space. Plus, by using the train, I didn't have to worry about parking. I could even take a little nap on the way home. With all the shopping we did in the afternoon, I needed that nap. Tom always wants to go by car. He says that way you don't have to carry all the stuff you buy. Either way, shopping always makes me so tired. I can't stand all the walking, standing and waiting, and I think it is dangerous to drive when you are tired. I was a bit disappointed that we didn't have time to go to the bookstore. That was the thing I wanted to do the most. But we got winter clothes for the children, which was my wife's main purpose. Tom was happy that we got to meet the professional ball players. He even got some autographs. And Cindy got some new clothes and a pair of boots. I would have preferred something other than hamburgers and fries for lunch, since this was a chance for my wife and me to enjoy a nice restaurant.

Daughter talking about the trip: The day wasn't as bad as I thought it would be. I mean, I always like going into the city — I just don't like going with Mom and Dad. I especially hate going with my little brother. The train ride was terrible. Dad was happy because he was able to read his newspaper. But it was so embarrassing when he turned the pages. He made so much noise that people turned and looked at us. Um, let's see... getting the autographs from the baseball players wasn't as boring as I thought it was going to be, even though it took up the whole morning. It was part of a special event for fans hosted by a big department store and was a really big deal for my little brother. The autographs kept him happy all day. All he ever thinks about is baseball... and hamburgers! Luckily, it was held at the department store where we went shopping so we didn't have to go anywhere else. I wanted to shop more for clothes — well, I mean the clothes that I want. Mom made us try on the clothes she chose. She gets really tense and stressed out about getting clothes for us. I never like what she chooses and she won't let me create my own style. So I was really surprised when, at the last store, she let me pick out a new pair of winter boots in the style that I wanted. I think she is relieved now, because she has winter clothes ready for my brother and me. This is one of the biggest things she has to do each year and now she is finished with it. And it is good that Dad did help her. But we ran out of time and couldn't stop at the furniture store. Mom and Dad had been talking about getting a new carpet for a long time. So, all in all, the day wasn't so bad, but next time, I want to choose my own clothes.

問 1 The father enjoyed the train ride because

41

.

- ① he didn't have to stand in line
- ② he had enough room to relax
- ③ it was cheaper on weekends than on weekdays
- ④ there were not many embarrassing people

問 2 The daughter didn't like the train ride because 42 .

- ① her brother didn't want to carry the bags
- ② her father drew the attention of other passengers
- ③ her father was tired from shopping and took a nap
- ④ the clothes her mother selected were too heavy to carry 問 3 The day's activities included 43 .

- ① a baseball game, a hamburger lunch, and shopping
- ② an autograph event, lunch, and clothes shopping
- ③ an event with some baseball players, a quick lunch, and buying a carpet
- ④ visits to a bookstore, the furniture store, and an expensive shoe store

問 4 The mother was probably satisfied with the day because 44 .

- ① everyone was happy about the restaurant they went to
- ② she got winter clothes for the children in time
- ③ she was able to complete her shopping for the entire year
- ④ the father decided to do something he had been talking about

問 5 Which of the following illustrations most accurately shows the results of the day in the city? 45

①

②

③

④

第6問 次の文章を読み、下の問い(問1～6)の ～ に入れるのに最も適当なものを、それぞれ下の①～④のうちから一つずつ選べ。なお、文章の左にある(1)～(6)は段落の番号を表している。(配点 36)

- (1) Rats, mice, hamsters, and squirrels belong to a large group of animals called rodents. It is estimated that there are about 2,000 species of rodent, and they are believed to be one of the most successful groups of animals we know. They are considered successful because the rodent group accounts for over 40% of all mammal species on earth. Of all the rodents, the mouse-like rodents, such as those mentioned above, are probably the most successful, and it has been suggested that what makes them so is their teeth.
- (2) Rodents' teeth enable them to eat a wide range of food, such as leaves, roots, nuts, and seeds. All rodents have four very sharp teeth at the front of their mouths — two at the top and two at the bottom. These teeth are called incisors, but unlike the incisors of most other mammals, they never stop growing. So whatever their age, rodents will always have fresh, sharp teeth to eat with. In addition, they also have extremely strong muscles around their mouths, which enables them to bite through the shells of nuts and seeds. Many other mammals and birds cannot do this, so the seeds they eat pass through their bodies undigested, and the nutrition within them is unused.
- (3) Nuts and seeds are very nutritious. Some seeds, such as sunflower seeds, sesame seeds, and peanuts, are very high in fat and protein. There are benefits of being able to eat these energy-rich foods: a lot of energy is gained in a short period of time; spending less time outside the home searching for food reduces the risk of being killed by other animals; and the time saved can be spent reproducing and looking after their young.
- (4) Successful reproduction is essential to the survival of a species. However, it can be a double-edged sword. That is, it has good points and bad points. Many rats and mice are eaten by other animals before they die of natural causes, so being able to reproduce quickly is a good thing as it increases the species' chances of survival. For example, a Norwegian rat could have 56 children and over 400 grandchildren within 20 weeks of being born. On the other hand, if reproduction is too successful and there is a huge increase in population in a short time, then there will not be enough food available for all of them to survive. When this happens, thousands and thousands die, resulting in a population crash.

- (5) The survivors often survive, not always by chance but because they are slightly different from the general population in some way. Perhaps they can run faster or further and so get to food before the others; or they have a better sense of smell and find food that others cannot; or they have stronger jaws and sharper teeth and can open nuts that others cannot open. Which of these slight advantages they have over those that die is not clearly understood; however, those that do survive have the opportunity to reproduce and pass on their advantageous traits to a new generation.
- (6) So together with their high rates of reproduction and the survival of those that have adapted in some beneficial way, mouse-like rodents are in a strong position to survive well into the future. Ultimately, however, what probably enables these mouse-like rodents to reproduce so successfully is the fact that their teeth allow them to eat highly nutritious nuts and seeds so they do not have to spend most of their time engaged in the dangerous activity of gathering food.

問 1 Paragraph (2) states that

46

.

- ① most birds and mammals can also digest the seeds they eat
- ② mouse-like rodents are not as successful as other animals
- ③ mouse-like rodents cannot bite into the center of nuts and seeds
- ④ rodents have four incisors and powerful muscles around their mouths

問 2 In paragraph (3), which of the following is NOT mentioned as a benefit of eating energy-rich foods? 47

- ① Eating food high in fat and protein helps rodents develop muscular bodies.
- ② It takes little time to get enough food to satisfy the body's energy requirements.
- ③ Less time is spent being exposed to the dangers of being eaten by another animal.
- ④ The time that is not spent searching for food can be used for raising a family.

問 3 According to paragraph (4), 48.

- ① the good point of having many young is that they exhibit different traits
- ② the increase in the population of a species may lead to food shortages
- ③ the Norwegian rat is a good example of surviving food shortages
- ④ the population of rodents is kept down by natural death

問 4 Paragraph (5) discusses 49.

- ① the breeding habits of rodents and other methods of repopulation
- ② the different kinds of successful rodent subspecies
- ③ the disadvantages that the surviving rodents face
- ④ the possible reasons why some rodents survive population crashes

問 5 The theme of the passage is about

50

.

- ① the advantages of using incisors for eating high energy food
- ② the mouse-like rodents and the reasons for their success
- ③ the relationship between the rodent population and the food supply
- ④ the rodents which account for the 40% of mammal species

問 6 The contents covered in the passage are listed at random below.

- (a) Sharp teeth and a powerful bite
- (b) The likely explanation for survival
- (c) Reproduction and population crashes
- (d) A background to mouse-like rodents
- (e) The advantages of high energy food
- (f) Conclusion

Which of the following best reflects the flow of the passage?

51

- ① (b) → (a) → (c) → (d) → (e) → (f)
- ② (b) → (a) → (e) → (c) → (d) → (f)
- ③ (d) → (a) → (c) → (b) → (e) → (f)
- ④ (d) → (a) → (e) → (c) → (b) → (f)

問題と解答は、独立行政法人 大学入試センターホームページより転載しています。
ただし、著作権上の都合により、一部の問題・画像を省略しています。

日本一の学校情報

<http://www.js88.com>

インターネット塾・予備校情報サイト

<http://jyuku.js88.com>